Teaching Methodologies

- Oral presentations. Lectures focused on the exposition of the different concepts and procedures related to the course.
- Analysis and discussion of bibliographical and audio-visual materials.
- Debates and discussion on topics related to the course.
- Guidance, decision making and resolution of the doubts raised by the students. Monitoring of distance learning and monitoring of individual work or small-group work. One-to-one or group supervision.
- Reading assignments prior to lectures.
- Course study and exam preparation.
- Project presentation in an autonomous way. This activity will be scheduled so that students can present their projects in an autonomous way.
- Exams. This activity aims to assess the learning outcomes of students in relation to the objectives and competencies set in the course syllabus.

Learning outcomes

- Acquisition and mastering of theoretical contents, showing the critical capacity developed during the course on the topics taught.
- Capacity building to analyse and synthesize the topics and cases proposed by the lecturer, as well as decision making, problem-solving, organization, planning and adaptative skills for the resolution of diverse situations that can take place in a classroom.
- Clarity in oral presentations and in written works.
- Regular attendance to class and seminars with a good attitude regarding participation, effort and involvement.

Assessment systems

The students must notify the lecturer (in writing) the type of assessment they prefer during the first three weeks of each term, and the lecturer must provide the corresponding Quality Commission with this information. If a student does not provide the lecturer with this information in that time, it will be assumed that he/she will opt for the formative assessment. Once they choose a type of assessment, they will not be able to change it for the first call and they will have to follow the regular procedure for the following ones.

A. Formative assessment

40%: portfolios, observation of the student's involvement and participation in seminars; compositions and other written documents; project presentation.

60%: Final written exam (in English), in which the theoretical and practical contents described above will be included.

There is no recovery of the unrealized parts, except for justified reasons.

B. Global/summative assessment

Global test. In this test the 100% of the course contents will be assessed in two parts: a written exam (70%) in which the theoretical and practical contents described above will be included and an oral exam (30%) consisting of a 4-5 minutes presentation of a topic chosen by the student among the contents taught during the course.

Both in the formative assessment and in the global/summative assessment it is necessary to pass all the parts to pass the subject.
